

CARDINAL MERCIER "DARK HORSE" FOR THE PAPACY

DIXON REPRESENTED AT CONFERENCE FOR BUSINESS BUILDING

Local Chamber of Commerce Takes Part in State Move.

E. R. Oxman, secretary-manager of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce, attended in Chicago the first Building Business Conference ever held in America which was attended by representatives of sixty Illinois Chamber of Commerce and twenty-two representatives of Illinois railroads, as well as observers from Commercial and Business Organizations throughout the country. By the co-operating of all the cities in Illinois through their Chambers of Commerce and Industrial Departments of the Railroad plans were made to prepare Illinois for her destiny as the greatest manufacturing state in the world. At present, Illinois ranks third among the industrial states, but a comparison of the last 20 years growth in manufacturing in the three leading states shows that Illinois has far outstripped New York and Pennsylvania, its two important rivals. During this 20-year period the output of Illinois manufacturers of Illinois show an increase of 423%. During the same period New York shows an increase of but 374% and Pennsylvania an increase of 343%.

This conference followed the publishing of a new book by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce called Illinois Facts. In this book Dixon and other cities in the state through their Chambers of Commerce advertised our city as a manufacturing town.

Prominent Men Attended.

The conference was opened by J. H. Camlin, president of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce and some of the prominent speakers were C. H. Markham, president of the I. C. railroad; H. G. Hetzler, president of the Belt railway of Chicago; Marvin Hight, vice-president of the C. & N. W. railroad; J. D. Rogers, vice-president of the Pennsylvania railway; W. G. Bied, president of the Chicago & Alton. This conference is unique in that it marks the first occasion upon which the Chamber of Commerce of any state have met to plan a statewide building program.

Prominent Illinois railroad officials gave interesting news as to their preparations as to future business and a brighter outlook. The Chicago & Burlington have placed orders for 7,300 freight cars; the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul for 2,500 freight cars. E. P. Brackett, vice-president of the Chicago & Burlington, stated that 3 million dollars worth of equipment had been ordered for their road and that several other millions would be spent in Illinois to help start things going.

The census of industrial plants in Illinois show that the 15,944 plants in Illinois were worth $5,426,653,000 according to 1919 census. Mr. Hatlin, president of the Illinois Manufacturing association, gave a review of the prediction by Chas. Wicker on the year 1944 when Chicago was 7,580 strong in population. A similar prediction was made for the future for the State of Illinois. In the general discussion of secretaries and presidents it was unanimously agreed that

Young Musician is Held After Attempt to Kill His Teacher

By Associated Press Leased Wire.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Raymond Oberndorf, said to be a promising young musician, is held by the police today pending investigation of his activities when he attempted to shoot Felix Borowski, composer and president of the Chicago musical college.

The young man, believed by the police to have become demented, told the patrolman who arrested him that Mr. Borowski should die because of his devotion to his young wife, a devotion, Oberndorf insisted, which had caused Mr. Borowski to neglect his musical composition and to slight him.

Oberndorf, the police say, called at the Borowski home, where he was cordially received. After a brief conversation he suddenly fired two shots, narrowly missing Borowski and his wife and then beat the composer over the head with the pistol during a desperate struggle.

Borowski's wife was formerly Miss Elsa Kanne of Peoria, Ill.

The fire had started underneath a big range in the car and slowly burned through the floor. The fire department was summoned to the scene at 2:30 and quickly extinguished the flames with chemicals.

RETURN OF ARMY OF AMERICAN DEAD NEAR END

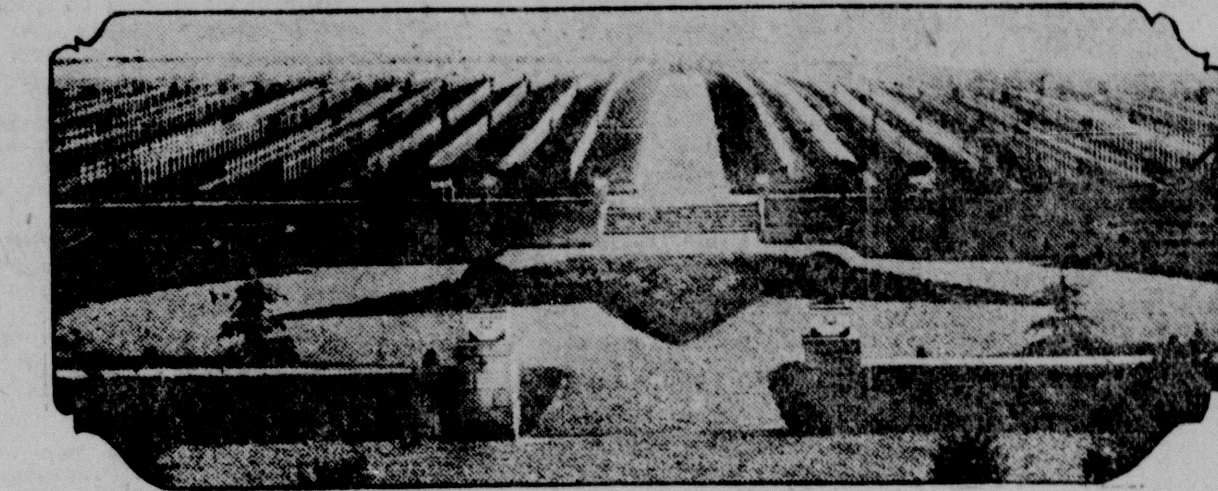

UNLOADING AMERICAN DEAD FROM A TRANSPORT AT NEW YORK.

BY RALPH HAYES
Former Secretary to the Secretary of War

Washington.—Pilgrimage of American soldier dead from overseas is ending. Upwards of 42,000 bodies from the dead of the A. E. F. have been brought home. A few more than 2,000 are yet to come. Approximately 31,500 will remain permanently in Europe.

From the war's beginning the government's policy regarding the return of military dead has been uniform. It expressed the hope that families might approve the internment of soldier relatives in American cemeteries abroad, but the option of leaving or returning the body lay with the nearest of kin.

When the Armistice came, with bodies having been buried where they fell, there were 2400 American burial places—and many isolated graves—along the front lines. That number has been gradually reduced.

Eventually there will be one main American burial place in Britain—at Brookwood in Surrey, about 24 miles from London—and six in France—to be known as the cemeteries of the

A committee of the National Fine Arts Commission has prepared plans for landscaping and construction work on the American burial plots abroad, and designed a standard headstone to mark each grave.

The stone is of American white marble, 38 inches long and 10 inches wide at the top. In a circle on the face of the stone is cut an emblem of the soldier's religious faith.

The task of repatriating thousands of bodies and of concentrating other thousands was—and is—tremendous. After much time and argument America and France finally reached an agreement permitting evacuation of our dead from the "zone of mili-

Its cemetery division at Washington operates through the machinery of the graves registration service in France. There are few previous undertakings with which to compare its accomplishments.

DEMONSTRATIONS OF LIGHTING BY EXPERT FOR DIXONITES TODAY

Value of Good Illumination Shown in Conference.

Facts, supported by actual demonstration, tending to prove the increase in production through the use of high intensity illumination in industrial plants were the features of an interesting lighting conference and demonstration held this afternoon at Rosbrook's hall under the auspices of the Illinois Northern Utilities Co. Local manufacturers and business men comprised the audience. Another similar demonstration will be given this evening at 8 o'clock.

The exhibit and lecture are a part of a broad educational movement in behalf of better lighting. A portable room in which the demonstrations were given. This consisted of a frame work of iron piping, supporting canvas walls and ceiling, near the top of which were hung various types of lights and reflectors. Within this portable room the audience sat and took part in the demonstration.

After first briefly tracing the history and development of the incandescent lamp the lecturer discussed the value of good illumination as a means of increasing the workmen's efficiency. To show that greater speed and accuracy and less spoilage depends directly on sufficient and adequate illumination, several tests and demonstrations were made which were most conclusive. In addition, the results of several actual tests made recently in factories to determine the advantage of illumination were shown, and in every case, the speaker said, production was increased to a marked degree.

Poor Light Causes Spoilage.

Among the interesting facts brought out during the conference was that poor lighting is found to be one of the causes of heavy loss from spoilage in American industries, amounting to the extraordinary sum of $28,000,000 annually due to poor lighting alone.

In addition to the reduction of spoilage, tests have shown, it was said, that with high intensity industrial illumination the actual production per man has been increased from

BONUS CANNOT BE PAID FROM FOREIGN DEBT Additional Taxation Only Way Treasury Head Declares.

By Associated Press Leased Wire.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Congressional leaders preparing to carry out the administration's plan for a soldier bonus bill were analyzing today the statement of the treasury's reasons for continued opposition to the bonus as transmitted in a letter from Secretary Mellon to Chairman Fordney of the house ways and means committee. Writing to Mr. Fordney late yesterday in response to a request for an expression of the department's views, Secretary Mellon declared that any attempt to provide for a bonus through use of the principal and interest of the foreign debt to this country would be "futile, as well as unwise" and that an attempt to do so through new government borrowings would be "dangerous in the extreme."

If there is to be a bonus however, the secretary said, it "must be provided for through taxation, and through taxation in addition to the taxes imposed by existing law." Estimates of government receipts and expenditures for the fiscal years 1922 and 1923 showed there would "probably" be a deficit rather than a surplus, he said, and there had been no allowance for such additional expenditure as would be involved in a soldier bonus for the first two years. On the most conservative estimates, he said, this would probably be not less than $550,000,000.

STRIKING CUTTERS TO VOTE ON CALLING OFF STRIKE IN ALL PLANTS

Ballot Will Be Taken Tomorrow; Packers Deny Suffering.

By Associated Press Leased Wire.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Effectiveness of the strike of packing house workers, continuance or the calling off of which will be voted on tomorrow by locals throughout the country, under orders of headquarters here of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen of America, has been denied by the packers since its inception on Dec. 5.

In many plants admissions were made that for a few days work was diminished, but that recently all the plants have been operating with output unimpaired. Until recently the union maintained all plants were practically closed, and the strike continued.

Yesterday at Oklahoma City five men, three white and two negroes, were sentenced to life imprisonment for their part in the lynching of Jake Brooks, a negro strike breaker. The strike was called after a majority of the members of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen of America, voted in favor of it after wage reductions in various packing centers had been agreed on by plant councils, the packing houses not recognizing the unions as existent, but agreeing to negotiate with committees from organizations of their own employees.

The question of reduced wages came up on the expiration of the Alschuler arbitration agreement under which Federal Judge Samuel Alschuler acted as arbitrator in all disputes. His agreement went into effect in March, 1917, and after being extended on several occasions, expired Sept. 15, 1921.

Attempts to bring the representatives of the unions and packers together through federal mediation failed when the packers asserted that there was no strike, so far as they were concerned, that their plants were operating at normal and that they were in agreement with the men whom they had employed.

TWO MINNESOTA AIRMEN LOST IN SNOWBOUND LAND Were Returning After Vain Search for County Officer.

By Associated Press Leased Wire.

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 25.—Several Minnesota national guardsmen plan to leave here on a motor truck today for Lax Lake, sixty miles northeast of here, to learn the fate of Major Ray Miller and Lieutenant Joe Westover, of the guard's aviation squadron, who are reported to have made a forced landing in their airplane late yesterday at Lax Lake.

Miller and Westover left Port Arthur, Ont., yesterday afternoon for Duluth, 220 miles away, after searching for more than a week for a trace of James Maher, Cook county, Minnesota, commissioner, last seen in an open motor boat on Lake Superior on Dec. 27. The hunt for Maher was given up yesterday and the airmen left for Duluth.

When they failed to arrive here at night fall, inquiries developed the fact that an airplane had been seen descending at Lax Lake.

In the event that the men landed safely, they would have to mush 16 miles through deep snow to Little Marais in order to reach a telephone. This would be an all night trip, as soldiers living in that region have neither horses nor automobiles.

MANY ILLEGAL MARRIAGES IN QUEBEC FOUND

Are Invalid Under Law Passed There Back in 1829.

Montreal, Jan. 25.—By the Associated Press.—Thousands of marriages have been illegally performed in this province during the last one hundred years because of the nationality of officiating clergymen.

An act passed in 1829, when Quebec was the British Colony of lower Canada, provided that only clergymen who were born subject could perform marriage ceremonies.

No civil marriages are performed in the province. Since 1829 many clergymen have come to Quebec from other countries, especially the United States, and they have officiated at marriages without regard to their nationality. At the end of each year they have turned in their books.

A Unitarian minister, an American, recently went to the government's officials to get his 1922 register and was informed that because of his foreign citizenship, he could not legally perform marriages in the province.

The question, raised by a studious clerk, was taken up by officials and it was then declared that the ancient law was still in force.

Besides Americans, many Catholic priests of French citizenship have been officiating at marriage ceremonies. Officials estimated thousands of "irregular marriages" had been performed since 1829.

According to an opinion by the Attorney General's department, the only way to regularize these marriages is for the legislature to pass a bill declaring that, notwithstanding the act of 1829, all marriages performed since that time by clergymen of recognized standing were to be considered legal.

By Associated Press Leased Wire.

BELGIUM'S WAR PRIMATE LOOMS AS POSSIBILITY

Funeral of Late Benedict Set for Thursday Afternoon.

Rome, Jan. 25.—(By the Associated Press).—The funeral of Pope Benedict XV will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, it was announced at the Vatican today.

The college of cardinals further decided that the funeral ceremony should be attended only by cardinals, members of the diplomatic corps and representatives of Roman aristocracy.

Pilgrims today continued to arrive from all parts of Italy, camping in the open air before St. Peter's in the hope of getting a glimpse of the body. More than half a million persons have filed past the catafalque in the two days on which the body has been exposed, the crowds, though orderly, taxing the gendarmes charged with keeping them in line.

Mercier a "Dark Horse."

Meanwhile, the foreign cardinals continue to arrive for the conclave of the sacred college at which the new pontiff will be elected. Cardinal Mercier of Belgium, who is looked upon as somewhat of a "dark horse" in the election, is expected in time for the funeral.

It is acknowledged on all sides that he is certain to poll more votes on the first ballot than any other foreign cardinal.

Interest in the election centers greatly on its possible effect on the relations between the Vatican and the Italian government. Cardinal Maffi reported as being supported by the government favoring an approachment, while Cardinal Gaspari, now acting head of the church, favors continuance of Benedict's policies of tolerance without recognition. Cardinal Merry Del Val, also mentioned as a possible choice, is supported by the faction favoring absolute separation.

The statement has appeared in several newspapers that Crown Prince Humbert visited the cathedral yesterday to view the body. This is semi-officially denied through the Stefani News Agency.

The committee also requested an increase of pension allowance to disabled Spanish War Veterans and the widows and dependents who are now getting, it was said, only $12 a month. The civil war widows and dependents' pension, it was said, is now $30 a month and the allowance to widows of World War veterans is $25. The Spanish War Veterans asked an increase to $20.

Inclusion of disabled Spanish War Veterans among those eligible for hospital treatment also was asked.

HABEAS CORPUS GETS MAN'S RELEASE; BUT HE'S IN JAIL AGAIN

Michael Paul May Yet Be Taken Back St. Paul, Minnesota.

Michael N. Paul of St. Paul, Minn., was released from the custody of Sheriff John Hayes of Freeport through habeas corpus proceedings instituted in the Lee county circuit court by Judge F. J. Stranely late yesterday afternoon, but he was immediately taken in custody by Sheriff Schenholz on a warrant sworn out before Justice Grover W. Gehant, charging him with being a fugitive from justice. The justice continued the case until Friday morning at 9 o'clock and held Paul under bonds of $1,000 which he was unable to furnish, and he is now in the Lee county jail.

The habeas corpus proceedings were started by Attorney A. J. Clarity of Freeport, who represents Paul in his legal entanglements. Attorneys Brooks and Bunnell of Dixon appeared in the circuit court yesterday for the Freeport attorney and presented the writ. Paul was wanted in St. Paul for failure to pay alimony to his divorced wife, as well as for child abandonment.

It was learned here last evening that a deputy sheriff had left St. Paul with requisition papers to take Paul back to that state to be prosecuted. The signature of Governor J. G. P. of Minnesota had been secured and the signature of Governor Len Small was necessary before the prisoner can be extradited.

Attorney H. A. Brooks of this city late yesterday filed suit in the circuit court against Sheriff John Hayes of Freeport, charging him with holding the prisoner without cause.

NEIGHBOURLY CLASS HELD ELECTION

The Neighbourly class of the M. E. church, taught by C. H. Klempner, met at the home of their teacher, at 207 Boyd street last evening, with a large attendance of members.

The president of the class, A. E. Taylor, called the meeting to order. Some business was transacted and an election of officers for the class resulted as follows:

President—A. E. Taylor.

Vice President—J. H. Livan.

Secretary—Mrs. Alice J. Anderson.

Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Herbert Scott.

Treasurer—George Swartz.

Assistant Treasurer—Charles Floto.

During the evening talks were given by President Taylor, L. E. Neighbour, the founder of the class, Nathan Cortright and C. C. Hintz, Superintendent of the Sunday school.

In behalf of the class, the pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. A. S. Moore, presented to the teacher, Mr. Klempner, a handsome gold watch chain and chain, engraved with the words, "From the Neighbourly Class." Rev. Moore made the presentation in a few appropriate and kindly words, bearing the message of good will and esteem from the large membership of the class. There are eighty-one on the class roll at present.

Mr. Klempner was greatly surprised and for a few moments could not voice his appreciation of the gift, so effected was he by the demonstration of affection from his friends, but he shortly regained his composure and thanked them all heartily. A social hour then followed and the serving of refreshments by the committee added the last bit of pleasure to the very happy evening.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR WOMEN

In order that the following good piece of news does not go unrecorded in this column today, taking it from our leased wire service of the Associated Press:

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 25.—Kenosha women, casting a majority of ballots in the city election yesterday, voted to throw out the old aldermanic form of government in vogue since 1850 and substitute a city manager plan. Old timers had not looked with much interest at the possibility of the new form of government going over. It was not until late in the afternoon that the opponents of the former woke up to find that the organization of the women had outwitted them and the election was lost. The women had workers in every ward and had 200 automobiles in service.

The book, "Illinois Facts," says of Dixon:

Dixon as a Manufacturing Town.

Transportation—On main line of Chicago Northwestern. On the Minneapolis to New Orleans route of the Illinois Central. This line runs the length of the state and crosses all railroads leading west from Chicago. Twenty passenger trains daily to and from Chicago. These roads operate a belt line around the city. Connected Lincoln Highway 105 miles to Chicago and 40 miles to Mississippi river, hard roads in all directions.

Power, Fuel, Water—Chief generating plant furnishing electricity over 16 counties is situated in Dixon. Gas service. Abundant supply of artesian water with ample pumping facilities. Coal mines within 35 miles by rail. A new big water power development possible. Water transportation from Illinois river via Hennepin Canal comes to within three miles of Dixon.

Available Sites—One to fifty acres on belt line with free switching. Several include river front. Best of fire protection everywhere.

Labor Supply—Large. More easily located. Never have known lockouts or strikes. Big companies with branch plants here have recently enlarged.

Present industries include shoe factory, cement works, milk condenser, wire screen plant with wire drawing mill, piano works, corset stay factory, mill, rollers, casket factory, lawn mower factory and poultry packing plant.

SECRET OF A GOOD DISPOSITION

A woman who carefully safeguards her health benefits her disposition. She will be happy and attractive to all. The world unfortunately is filled with sweet women who are unhappy because they are held back from usefulness by troubles so common among them. Truthfulness and nervousness rapidly destroy good dispositions. Sickly, all-worn-out women cannot make happy homes.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a safeguard of women's health. This is clearly proven by the many letters we are continually publishing in this paper, from women who have been restored to health and happiness by its use after years of suffering. Why don't you try it?

no bonus, sites, taxes, exemptions, etc., should be given to non-resident industries trying to enter your city. The way to get industries was by city planning, proper zoning, adequate churches, schools, parks, playgrounds, proper forms of government.

The form of survey for each city in Illinois was presented and adopted. Mr. Hemminger of the Big Four of Cincinnati stated that labor was as much of an asset as raw material, but the greatest asset in any community was civic pride.

Always Fresh and Wholesome "A LIVE TOWN OF OUR OWN"

"It's been some hill-climbing contest we've all been in for the last twelve months, but the grade is getting easier and it looks now as if we'll soon see the sun of prosperity shining over the top of the rise. Let's step on the gas."

Our weather is slowly improving. Joseph, little son of Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer, is quite ill.

BROWNIE ENTERTAINERS.

Brownie Salzman entertained several young ladies at his home over on the Gold Coast last evening with dainties and punch. All enjoyed a very exciting and pleasant evening. The ladies pronounce Brownie some entertainer. (This was phoned in by Brownie himself.)

Judge John B. Crabtree was an early visitor on the Avenue this morning. He boarded the southbound train for Bloomington. While waiting for the train, John took a squint over his fences to see if the pickets were all intact.

William Sherry received a card from Tom Drew this morning. "Tom is at Hot Spring, Ark. He says he is having a fine time; the weather is fine and he expects to stay there for some time."

MISS GEISENHEIMER AT

HOLLYWOOD HOTEL—
Miss Anna Geisenheimer and Mrs.
Henrietta Ebinger are now nicely situated at the Hollywood Hotel in Hollywood, Calif.

In a letter to friends she says: "We had a very quiet, uneventful trip, having been over the same route a number of times, we were not especially interested in the scenery and as we had a compartment, for Auntie's sake, we met very few people. However, I always find something new and worth while and this trip contributed a wholly new picture and one I shall never forget. * * * There seems to have been a great deal of snow this winter all through Nebraska and further west the ground was pretty well covered. When we got into the mountains I had a wonderful thrill. I've seen all sea and sky—all desert and sky—and now I've seen the whole world from under my feet up five thousand feet to the mountain peaks, literally covered with snow, sparkling like diamonds in the sunlight, that's the picture I'll never forget—just snow and sky. * * *

We find the weather beautiful here
and sunny and warm—everything green and while riding this afternoon we saw roses in bloom, in fact there are all kinds of flowers in bloom. * * *
Such a lovely ride this afternoon. I do not think the crowds on the streets
are as large as they were last year,
but when we see the wonderful changes in the way of new buildings that have taken place since we were here last year, we surely cannot see anything but prosperity here in Los Angeles. * * *

TOO MUCH OF A GOOD THING

The Golden Rule Sunday School
class of St. Paul's Lutheran church will give a humorous entertainment on Friday evening in the Sunday School
Rooms to which the public are invited.
The principal part of the program will be the presentation of the comedy,
"Too Much of a Good Thing." Ludicrious situations develop from mistaken identities, and from the efforts of the backwoods cousin to meet the requirements of the "best society." The following are the characters:
Mr. Perkins, who enjoys a joke—
Vernon Hardin.
Tom Perkins, backwoods cousin—
James Schrock.
Fred Schuyler, fiance of Jennie—
Harold Boyer.
Mrs. Perkins, society devotee—Marjorie Slothower.
Hattie Perkins, Nellie Perkins,
brought up under "best society" rules—
Della Phillips, Mary Bollman.
Eunice Bowles, a bold female—Mary Bollman.

Jennie Cowper, cousin to the Per-kinses—Florence Rudolph.
Folly, Maid of all work—Lulu Hill.
The Sunday school orchestra will furnish three selections, and Miss Eva Peterson will give a vocal number. A reading, "The Lost Word" will be given by Hazel Becker.

OBITUARY

MRS. CHARLES FRY. (Contributed.)

Mrs. Charles Fry departed from this world Thursday morning, Jan. 19, 1922.
She was born in Grundy County, Pa.,
May 7, 1843, being at the age of 79 years, eight months and 12 days. At the age of 29 she was united in marriage to Charles F. Fry at Oregon, Ill., near where they settled on a farm,
later moving to Chana, Ill., where they conducted a hotel known as the Chana House and later moving to Dixon
where they resided for over 30 years,
the past year she being so feeble,
made her home with her son, Edward and family, where she was tenderly cared for. Sunday she was taken with a cold which developed into pneumonia,
only being sick a few days when death came peacefully and took her to the great beyond. She united with the Brethren church when 12 years of age and was always a firm believer in her Saviour. Of late years her failing health prevented her from attending regularly the church services. She was a kind and loving mother, always ready to aid in caring for the sick and afflicted.

She leaves to mourn her passing,
Frank J., and John T., of Rockford;
Edward C., of Rock Falls; Willis M.,
of Eldena; Blanche Warner, of Oregon; Bertha and Roy of Dixon; two sons, Ray and Floyd, having passed away some years ago and her husband, Charles Fry, preceded her in death eight years ago, July 19.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 1:30 in Rock Falls by Rev. Semister, pastor of the M. E.
church with burial in Oakwood cemetery, Dixon, where she was laid to rest in the family lot beside her husband.

A kind mother has left us,
A voice is stilled forever.

THE ST. LAWRENCE PROJECT

New York and the east may be expected to make the most of the reported fact that the joint high commission's favorable recommendations
on the proposed deepening and canal-ization of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterway contains two stipulations not yet officially announced.

The first of these two stipulations
is, that the United States shall share the cost of the Welland canal as an integral part of the lakes-to-the-ocean development scheme, despite the fact that the canal and locks are entirely in Canadian territory.

The second is that the United States shall bear the larger portion of the entire cost of deepening the St.
Lawrence and building the Welland canal the proportions being based on the amount of commerce conducted between American and Canadian Great Lakes ports instead of on a flat
"fifty-fifty" basis.

These seem to be perfectly fair stipulations. The United States stands to get the most out of the project and it ought to carry the greater share of the burden, so long as there continues to be any burden.

And the prospect is that the so-called burden will be only a temporary one, one that will not cost either of the two governments anything in the end. It is confidently declared that every dollar of the cost would be recovered from the sale of electric power developed at various points
along the route of the improvement.

It is estimated that a thirty-foot channel, with locks to accommodate ships of that draft, would cost a total of $270,000,000. The new Welland canal will cost approximately $120,000,- 000. It will take eight years to complete the project.

Recognizing that the project would strike an almost insurmountable
snag in the house rivers and harbors
committee, of which Representative Dempsy of New York, a bitter opponent, is chairman, Representative Chalmers of Ohio has introduced in the house a bill designed to carry into effect many of the recommendations made by the international joint commission. "Instead of levying taxes
on the citizens of the United States and the Dominion of Canada for the construction of the Great Lakes-St.
Lawrence deep waterway and the Welland canal," Representative Chalmers says, "my bill proposes that the entire expense be borne by a bond issue guaranteed by the two governments, which can be paid off by the returns from the sale of hydro-electric power made available for commercial use by the improvement." This avoids taxation, the receipts for power take care of the bonds, principal and interest.

One provision in the bill is that
"the benefits to be derived in the way of hydro-electric energy be evenly divided between the two countries." This provision may require a very distinct interpretation. If the two governments jointly guarantee the bonds it will be fair to evenly divide the benefits until the bonds have been taken up from the receipts of hydro-electric energy. The question is, after that time, are the earnings from this energy still to be divided on a fifty-fifty basis? If so, that ought certainly be acceptable to Canada, making up for the fact that in the first place Canada is to be equally responsible with the United States for the bonds and the interest on them, instead of on the basis of business at the several points.

Under this interpretation, the bill is not so greatly different from the joint high commission's recommendations, unless it may be figured that in the long run it promises to be more favorable to Canada.

The project ought most certainly be undertaken by the two governments. The enterprise is too great and too important to be side-tracked because of minor differences as to how it should be financed. It is too important for the whole country to allow opposition of New York to defeat

it. New Yorkers want freight from the Great Lakes to the ocean to be carried through the New York state barge canal in order that New York City may get the business.

HOW CURB THE DESPERATE
BANDITRY

Something drastic must be done to curb bank robbers and holdup men.

When one of these fellows is arrested and convicted, he ought to stay "convicted" till his term has been served.
Perpetrators of these crimes should put outside the power of the pardon board to release from prison. This would give the sheriffs and all other peace officers an additional incentive to "get" these fellows and to see that they are punished. As it is now, these desperadoes manage to escape in a short time from prison, or, they play
the other hand, they are extremely
"good" while looked up and thus they so appeal to the good graces of the pardon board that they are released—to ply their desperate trade
again, just as ready to commit murder to gain their ends as they were before first conviction.

There have been instances in which desperate criminals have been arrested, convicted and sentenced for the robbing of a bank or other business
house, where they have been pardon-ed in a year or less, and then have returned and robbed the same place once more just to show that they could do it. In more than one such instance the sheriff and the peace officers have lost their interest in recapturing these fellows. Why should they not?

Very seldom it is that daily papers are not called on to record at least one bank robbery or one business
house or individual holdup netting the criminals anywhere from $25,000
up. A great many of the holdups are perpetrated on the highways of the state, 90 per cent of them, according to Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes of Chicago—the bandits using stolen cars to hold up peaceable pedestrians or citizens driving their own cars. These holdups frequently result in murder as well as robbery.
The bandits using the stolen car make an easy get-away back to the neighborhood of their big city haunts
where they abandon the stolen car
and lose themselves among their fellow criminals.

Every day it is becoming more apparent that Illinois needs a state police force to quickly capture the criminals thus operating on the highways.
With such a force a very large additional percentage of them would be captured or killed, for they deserve no more mercy than they accord to the men who seek to arrest them.
Then, with awakened public sentiment, there would be more convictions of those who were taken, and a greater surety that they would have to serve their terms, even if it should become necessary to remove their cases from the discretion of the pardon board.

Security companies are reporting that they were called on in 1921 to pay losses more than 70 per cent greater than in 1920. If this thing doesn't stop, these companies will have to greatly increase their rates,
and the burden on the business communities will be made so great that fewer policies will be taken out, perhaps the companies will be driven out of business.

This suggests, not only for the benefit of the security companies, but in order that greater effort may be made to capture the criminals, and in order that there be less complacency on the part of the business insured—in the knowledge that they were, in any event, to get their money back—that there be made a radical limitation of the amount required to be paid by the security company to the insured. Instead of being full insured up to a specific amount, say $100,000 or $200,000, the security company should be allowed to pay no more than say two-thirds of the actual loss, even were this actual loss, no more than say $150. It might be difficult with such a change to fix in advance the amount of the actual premium to be paid for the security,
but no doubt a fair way could be found to cover it. Then there would be many cases less complacency,
and every one would be alert to capture the criminals.

But the first move should be for a state police force. No influence should be allowed by our legislature at their next session to thwart passage of the necessary state police law.

WHEN AMERICA WILL HELP
EUROPE

It seems to be as good as decided in Washington that there must be deflation in Europe, adjustment of German reparations and a big reduction in armies, before this country consents to aid in rehabilitation of the countries over there. That in itself is a decision that should most admirably supplement the big results of the arms conference. It is not likely that Europe will decide to get along without American aid; therefore the European countries are likely to meet the terms—to deflate their currencies, to get together on Ger-

LEARN A WORD
EVERY DAY

Today's word is DESPOIL.
It's pronounced—de-spoil with accent on the last syllable.

It means—to plunder, to rob, to pillage, to take away one's belongings.
It comes from Latin—"despoliare,"
to rob.

Companion words—despoliation, de-spolator.

It's used like this—"He complained that rent profiteers had despoiled him
of all his money."

A THOUGHT
FOR TODAYADVENTURES
OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Burtin

COCHIN CHINA, EGGS.

Nick grabbed him and set him on the nest of eggs.

The next thing the Twins found was a nest of eggs. How it happened that they didn't break, I don't know
but there they were perfectly whole, not a crack in one of them. That's the way it is with Whizzy Tornado—
he can shatter whole towns with one whiff of his great breath, and yet it often happens that he sets things down miles off, so very gently that it wouldn't waken a sleeping baby.

The eggs were crying and making queer sounds. "What is it?" asked Buskins, bending low.

"Oo-ling—how—wong—chu!" wailed
the eggs. "Ying-sing-wu-lung-foo!"

"That's too bad," said the fairytale
soberly. "It must be awful."

But the Twins understood. "They are Cochin China eggs," said mancey,
"and they want their mama, they say.
They'll be chickens by tomorrow if they are only kept warm. They are just beginning to hatch."

"Well, well! Here's a pretty kettle of fish. I mean nestful of eggs," said

Buskins. "Does anybody see, a hen anywhere?"

Nobody did, but a large red rooster happened to strut by just then, little suspecting what was in store for him.

Nick grabbed him and set him on the nest of eggs, much to that gentleman's amazement. "Clk, clk, clk," he chort-led, getting redder and redder in the face. "What all this? This is an outrage! Let me go, I tell you!"

"Yes, tomorrow, my dear sir, tomorrow," nodded Buskins. "You may as well be of some use while you're here.
Be good and I'll send you home as soon as I can."

And Mr. Rooster obeyed, although he kept muttering to himself and clucking away down in his throat.

He told his friends afterwards that he was never so mortified in his life.
Playing hen was bad enough, but Chinese chickens!

SKATE!—THAT'LL BRING YOU HEALTH
AND VIGOR

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

The United States is a good place in which to live. On account of the numerous inland lakes and rivers, there are few of us who cannot take advantage of outdoor exercises and sports, as swimming in summer and skating in winter.

Swimming has often been proclaimed
as the most healthful of outdoor exercises. In winter skating takes its place. It is by far the most healthful of winter exercises, not only because it gets one out of doors but because it exercises a whole lot of muscles one never thought he had.

You will learn this fact after the first session of skating. Every muscle in your body will be stiff and sore because they have not been used for a long time. But a few more visits to the pond will soon do away with this soreness, and the sport will bring a healthful exhilaration afterwards.

Skating not only hardens up flabby, little-used muscles, but it starts the heart to pumping the good red blood into every extremity of the body.

It serves to inject health-giving fresh air into the lungs and this, in turn, has a beneficial effect on the blood. The lungs, too, will tend to become stronger and the chest deeper.

Indoor skating on artificial ice is not nearly as healthy as skating outdoors.

Therefore, get out on the frozen pond as often as you can.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem
An Interrupted Lyric

I sing—(oh gosh)—in praise of her I love.
Her beauty is (confound that shooting pain)—
Let's see, what was it I was singing
of?
Oh yes, "her beauty" (I will go insane).
Hey, wait! That's not exactly what I mean.
(Ouch! darn the thing! Excuse me if I curse).
I meant to say, "Her beauty, once
it's seen,
Will never"—(Now the ache is getting worse!)

That's better. Now, where was I?
Oh, I know.
"Her beauty is aglow with" (Hold Smoked!
I wouldn't wish this on my dearest foe)—
"Her beauty"—(This is getting past
a joke!)
(I'll make another start) "My love is fair,
My love is sweet as"—(Where's the Oil of Cloves?
Doggone! Doggone and damn! Well,
you would swear
If you possessed a pain that jumps
and roves
A bout your face as this does)—("She is sweet"—
(I can't go on, and that's the honest truth;
This song of mine will never be complete
Until the dentist fixes up my tooth!)"

The STEP on the STAIRS

by
ISABEL

Prof. Semenov replied blandly: "The policeman on guard outside Miss Vane's door happened to be an old acquaintance. He helped me to open a small skylight in the main hall which led to the roof. From there I descended the fire escape to the window of Miss Shaw's studio and found her huddled up in a bare, hard chair, a stumble that I fear was not a normal one for a small carton of tablets was beside her. I went through the entire attic, examined the pitifully few garments and other things and found no paint or other stains, any eradicator save soap.

Climbing farther down the fire escape past the window of my own apartment, I came to those of my neighbor, Henry Griswold. His rooms must have been deep, and he milled as I looked at him and made sounds in his throat like those of an animal, his eyes were fixed on me. A mention of dogs, that stuffed monstrosity which held the place of honor in his little room was the only object in the whole apartment that gave any evidence of having been cleaned in the last decade, and I found it replete with various chemicals, among them also a strong odor of turpentine.

"The dog," muttered Barry. "The dog stuffed dog."

"When I had completed my search here I left as I had come. That portion of the fire escape ends on the floor below as you know, on the skylight of Mrs. Vane's studio. But a walk-way runs a round the edge to the outside row of windows of the extension, where the second section of the fire escape begins and continues to the street."

"Was Gordon Ladd out or asleep?" demanded Barry, half incredulously. Prof. Semenov smiled meaningly.

"Neither, at first. When I appeared at the window of his study I could see through the door that led into his living room. He was tramping up and down, and though I do not pretend to be a psychologist, I would be willing to swear that sorrow alone, grief that tore at his heart strings, was reflected upon his face. He was in solitude, aware of no eavesdropper, and yet I saw no signs of either grief or fear."

"You returned then, Professor, the way you had come?"

"Yes; for a sororite made from a formula of my own which is less harmful and more effective than that in which Miss Shaw had indulged. With it I returned by way of the fire escape to Mrs. Ladd's window and rapped on the pane. He was astonished and resentful, naturally, but when I made myself known to him not only as his neighbor but as the person you know at headquarters, he admitted me. I think the poor young man was glad of some one to talk to, for after your departure the full import of what had occurred must have descended upon him. We had a sympathetic little hour, in which I learned much that had no bearing upon the crime but which I will tell you of later, and at its end he was quite willing to take the opiate and get a little rest and succor from his grief. He fell into a deep sleep almost at once, but it was then morning and I could make only superficial search. There was turpentine nowhere but in his studio."

"So we drew a blank, eh, Professor Semenov?" Barry shrugged. "Sorry to have kept you up all night and made that request of you for nothing, but I had a hunch that someone who had no business to do so had touched that portrait of Mrs. Vansittart last night while the paint was wet and brought away traces that they would try to get rid of at all costs."

It was the professor's turn to shrug.

"I know nothing of that, for I have not yet heard what you may have to tell me, my friend, but the turpentine I did find, and in a most unlikely place," he observed. "You forget that horrible stuffed dog in the apartment of Henry Griswold."

"No," responded Sergeant Barry, thoughtfully, "I have not forgotten the dog."

CHAPTER VIII

"You may have forgotten the dog, but I have not forgotten my breakfast!" Professor Semenov laughed. "You have had yours, Sergeant? Then while I make my tea I hold you to your promise to tell me what is permissible of your investigations."

"It seems fairly evident, then, that Miriam Vane, the portrait painter, was born only a few years ago." He remarked when the detective finished. "I wonder who inhabited that splendid body before that, and what havoc she wrought in the lives of men and women."

"Oh, undoubtedly she buried a past of some kind, but as I told the chief it need not have been a discreditable one." Barry's matter-of-fact tone was in sharp contrast to the dreamy, almost mystic note which had come into the Russian's voice.

"And the empty cartridge shell?" the professor reminded him. "No, my friend. That was her ghost of Banquet!"

"I think so, myself." The sergeant rose. "I won't keep you from your laboratory any longer now, professor."

"Will you let me know the real report of the medical examiner after the autopsy? The full report, whether it is all given out to the press or not?" asked Prof. Semenov. "I make particular reference to the distance from which the shot that killed Mrs. Vane may have been fired."

In spite of himself the detective started slightly.

"But you have calculated that already, sir. You said last night after we returned here to your rooms that it must have been fired by someone who knew who was in the studio with her and that she may have turned from her canvas to speak to this person and so presented the opportunity for an unimpeded aim."

Again the professor smiled and this time it was with a significance which told Barry that it would be useless to dissimile.

"You forget that I spoke then before I had made my search of all the apartments for traces of turpentine."

Leaving the desk at last he crossed temporarily empty apartment for him.

After dismissing the janitor he proceeded to force the drawers of the desk neatly and with dispatch but the documents and ledgers with which it was filled told him nothing, and in spite of himself the rigid form and fixed, gloomy stare of the melancholy, moth-eaten old hound in the corner seemed reproachfully as though even in death the beast would guard and defend his master's possessions.

Leaving the desk at last he crossed temporarily empty apartment for him.

said the professor. "I respect your professional reservations, my friend, but I, too, have eyes! In the studio of Mrs. Vane I observed the raised window shade, the little bull's eye—the cross in red paint of the back of the portrait and the small puncture which had penetrated it, and turning, I looked over at that dark and silent house across the strip of garden. Some of its blank, staring windows were directly in line and I wondered—"

Not another word on the subject would Barry persuade that eccentric scientist to utter and the latter departed, still smiling, to leave the detective in a decidedly reflective frame of mind. Time pressed, however, and descending the stairs Sergeant Barry easily persuaded Kresche to unlock the door of Henry Griswold's and examined the stuffed animal closely. It was, as the professor had said, redolent of turpentine and the musty, spicy odor of taxidermy of other days. He was fingering one of the long, still silky ears when the door suddenly burst open with such force that it banged against the wall and Griswold strode in, stopping short in speechless astonishment and affront when he beheld the intruder.

Then his glance traveled to the rifled desk and found his voice in a string of oaths which left him panting and mottled of countenance.

"Just a moment," Mr. Griswold. Barry remarked smoothly. "Your apartment was entered and your desk opened by official authority and I think your interview at headquarters with the chief during the last hour must have told you that even you cannot combat it. Who owns this house next door?"

He shot the question so unexpectedly at the angry man that for a minute Griswold blinked. Then he replied with a gulp.

"The Gotham Realty Company."

"Who is president of it?"

"I am, and I refuse to reply to any further question!"

"But Mrs. Vane has stated to witnesses whom we can produce that you and she knew each other before she ever came here," Barry declared.

"Then she lied!" Griswold cried, his temper rising again. "I never laid eyes on the woman!"

"Mr. Griswold!" Barry asked quickly. "What was that dog's name?"

"Marcus, but we called him Mark for short." Griswold drew himself up. "Now that you have asked your last idiotically irrelevant question, Sergeant Barry, will you go?"

But Barry seemed not to have heard the furiously uttered request. He still stood stroking the stiffened, drooping ear of the beast and remarked:

"He looks quite lifelike, Mr. Griswold, with that dejected expression. I should not have called him Marcus but Mopus!"

As the name fell from the detective's lips the change in the man before him was instantaneous and hideous beyond all description. His sallow skin turned a sultry gray and he slumped back and seemed to wither like a mummy that is unrolled.

"Mopus!" It was a mere breath that issued from between the thin, dry lips. "Mopus! She called him that!"

"She?—Who," Barry's voice rang through the room and then indeed the mummy came to life.

A harsh, choking cry replied to him and Henry Griswold staggered over to the chair by the table and flinging his arms wide buried his face in them. "My wife!"

U. of I. Runner Weds French Girl

Quincy, Ill., Jan. 24. — Phil Spink, famous University of Illinois distance runner, member of the Chicago Athletic club, and place-winner in the inter-allied games at Paris during service days, has been married to Madeline Poisson of Paris, France, whom he met during war time when he was over seas, according to a wedding invitation received here today. Spink and his wife were married, Jan. 12, according to the date set in the invitation. His bride and her mother, Mme. Albert Poisson, have been living in Chicago, where Spink is employed.

Thieves Haul Loot in Baby's Carriage

Chicago, Jan. 24.—A baby buggy reposes in a police station here today as evidence. Two men who were pushing it solicitedly excited the suspicion of a patrolman who approached them, removed a dainty coverlet and discovered three dresses, an automobile tire and two automobile tires occupying the place ordinarily accorded to an infant. The property was identified as that stolen from several homes.

Career of "Messiah" Ended By Russ Govt.

Reval, Esthonia, Jan. 24.—Russian Soviet authorities, according to Petrograd newsmen, have ended abruptly the career of a monk, who claiming to be a second Messiah, attempted to follow in the footsteps of notorious Russian monk, Rasputin. The monk, Vladimir Tarabayev, founded at Novaya Derevnia, near Petrograd, a church of his own. He claimed wonderful healing powers and the credulous flocked to his cell. As the number of his followers, chiefly women, grew, Tarabayev, according to Soviet officials, selected among them a number whom he called his "angels," who occupied his house with him.

He was sentenced to three years and four months in prison.

Man Who Fought on Both Sides of War of '61-'65 is Dead

Marion, Ill., Jan. 24.—Brice Holland, 80, who fought for both the North and South in the Civil War is dead at his home here.

Holland resided in West Virginia at the outbreak of the war and was drafted into the Confederate army. He was wounded in the battle of Shiloh, captured by the Union forces and escaped. He then enlisted in the Union navy and fought in several battles. He was formerly a major in the Eighth Illinois Infantry, National Guard.

Knox Quintet Made Reputation in East

Galesburg, Jan. 24.—Knox made its reputation on the eastern trip, four victories out of five games last night by defeating the strong Trinity College five, at Hartford, Conn., 29 to 18. Numerous fouls called on Knox again slowed up the game. Twenty technicals and 12 personals were chalked up against the westerners, but Trinity only made good 8 of the free throws.

Albro and Campbell again were the stars for Knox, each caging 4 field goals, and Albro making 9 out of 11 free throws.

Captain Crabbe who received a broken nose in the Brown game, was hit again and forced to retire from the game after ten minutes of play.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound, mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

He will probably be unable to play against Yale at New Haven tonight.

Bordeaux, Jan. 24.—Former Empress Zita of Austria Hungary left today for Madrid on her way to the Island of Madeira to rejoin former Emperor Charles in exile. She was allowed to leave Madeira to be at the bedside of her son, Robert, who recently underwent an operation in Switzerland.

Mother, You Should Know that the care of your little one's constitutional habits during childhood, is your first and greatest duty.

You should know that the prompt and proper breaking up of the costive tendency to which most children are prone, may save your child from after-years of digestive misery. That trusted remedy of many mothers,

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for Children,

Used by mothers for over 30 years, gives the little one exactly the digestive assistance needed.

These powders are pleasant to take and easy for parents to give. There is no harmful purgative action. When your child is lethargic, with bad stomach, or fretful and colicky, or afflicted with worms, these powders never fail. Don't mark, sold by druggists anywhere.

You should ask for Mother Gray's Sweet Powders FOR CHILDREN.

GRANDMA USED SAGE EAT TO DARKEN HAIR

She mixed Sulphur with it to Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur at home, is a real bargain. It is a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
